

The process

Our approach to capturing your ideas on film will be affected by the situation. For example, you may wish for us to capture an event such as a sports day or a corporate gathering or meeting. Plans for these shoots can only be scheduled around the location and timetable of the event as actions and spoken word of the events audience cannot be scripted. We can however provide a service to prepare questions for interviews or vox pops and help you to evolve on a direction of the final video that in effect will structure our method of approach to the production.

Planned shoots that are scripted will include those for adverts, short and feature films, TV or music videos.

Throughout the production process we will follow the prepared script and schedule in a professional and consecutive manner.

Our crew have a particular eye for detail when working to achieve the demands of the client. From the construction of our sets to the particular style of an actor, mise en scene is very important to us. Once we accept a project it is not only essential for us to achieve quality for our clients but also for a personal sense of achievement.

Your input is welcome every step of the way to help us keep you intial vision alive and evolve on your imagination.
